If you love it, your job is not likely to get a divorce from you.

If you are never willing to "take a chance" you'll probably never have much of a chance to take.

Keep yourself sweet and clean and pure if you can, but at least keep yourself sweet.

When you die it doesn't matter what you were worth, but did you have worth.

Train up a child in the way he should go and then keep your eye on him to see that he doesn't break training before he enters the fight.

Gossips act like they are telling something rather remarkable when they say that some married pair "doesn't get along very well together," but they would be telling something much more remarkable if they'd point out some who always do get along very well together.

BRAVE WOMAN TAKES A TRIP

(By Associated Press.)
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 1.—The high cost of living—including the high cost of traveling—means nothing to Mrs. Anna Bradley, who has just arrived here with her six children after traveling from Silver Lake, Ore., a distance of 1500 miles, at a total financial expenditure of fifty cents.

Mrs. Bradley lived eighteen years in eastern Oregon, having gone there as organizer for a band of Baptist missionaries and remaining to carry a rancher and become the mother of six. More than a year ago, she said, her husband left home and she had not seen him since. He left behind him an elderly horse and a two-wheeled carriage, minus a top, but equipped with loose spokes in the wheels.

Finally, in despair of her situation Mrs. Bradley put her six children, a frying pan and all the family clothing into the carriage, hitched the old horse to it and started for Los Angeles. She had just fifty cents in cash, but much courage.

The day of their departure was May 15, 1919. They made the trip in a little less than four months. They stopped at friendly farmhouses and when they reached an orchard where the crop was being harvested, she went to work. Esther, her eldest child, 12 years old, helped her. Homer, 14, the only boy, did the cooking. It was the only what she could along the same line. Mary, 7, took care of the 4 and Grace, 2, the baby.

"We had to suffer hardships, of course," said Mrs. Bradley, "but we found the hearts of all the people we met were big. Now that it is over I think it was a wonderful experience. What we want now is a place to start life again."

CHINESE FACTIONS AT LOGGERHEADS

(By Associated Press.)
HANKOW, Sept. 26.—Attempts to organize a conference between delegates from north China and south China at Shanghai are likely to grow abortive, the southern delegation refusing to meet Wang Tang, representative of the northern government. Resumption of hostilities is feared.

MRS. G. HISLOP CUTS THROAT EAR TO EAR

The family occupied a house lately owned by W. A. Moran, back of the Bowler house on Bryan avenue and the neighbors say they knew of no discord to suggest any domestic unhappiness. The fact that there was fear of a separation or deep jealousy is indicated by the letter written by the dead woman, for she wrote referring to a threatened divorce, adding that she loved her husband too dearly to permit a divorce or "any Mormon" to come between them.

George Hislop is well known as the transfer man who bought the property and business formerly owned by Lou Walker and has always been considered a good citizen and a loving husband. The dead woman was about 35 years of age and rather comely. The baby daughter, who is said to be the image of her mother, is strikingly beautiful. After viewing the remains the coroner ordered the body removed to the undertaking rooms where an inquest will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

A telegram from the sister received this afternoon by the undertaker, read: "Hold the body. Am leaving first train."

For some time past it has been whispered that the domestic relations of the Hislops were not of the best and this carried with it the report that the husband was contemplating a separation and return to Vernal, Utah, where he is said to have relatives. The house the family occupied was bought from W. A. Moran and is fully paid for.

Hislop worked at the Belmont for a period of three or four months when he was engaged in breaking in mules to underground work and training a set of drivers. His business affairs were in excellent shape and he was said to be quite prosperous. That the crime was premeditated and not the sudden impulse of the moment, is indicated by the fact that the letter was written last night, according to the statement of one of the children, and the further proof that the ink was dry when the letter passed into the hands of the coroner.
